THRILLING STORY OF FIELD MISSION IN WEST INTERESTS WOMEN OF DISTRICT CHURCHES

Western S.S. Caravan Representative Tells Of Work With Scattered Settlers On Canada's Prairies — Work Important As Antidote To Subversive Teachings Of Racial Groups.

Medical Work Also Done

For nearly two hours last Thursday afternoon Miss Eva Hasell, M.B.E., of the Western Sunday School Caravans, held her audience at St. Andrew's Parish Hall spellbound as she recounted, by story and picture, her adventures among the scattered settlers of the Western Provinces.

The Vans cover the west. Each is operated by two women, one a qualified driver and the other a trained teacher. This year there were 27 Canadians and 21 British on the staff. They visit the lonely settlers on their farms. Where the mud roads end and the trails begin they walk for miles and miles through wild country, bog and swollen river to bring cheer and spiritual refreshment to those who are far beyond the reach of church and missionary. They gather the children together for simple Christian teaching. They leave Bibles and Christian literature and place the names of the children on the Sunday School by post. In this way 5,000 children receive spiritual inspiration and guidance. They do what they can to relieve the desperate poverty they meet by sending parcels of clothing to the children and parents.

These sparsely settled districts seem to be a special field for strange religious and subversive aims. The doctrines of Jehovah's Witnesses are rife. Their literature seeps into every corner. From the strong colonies of German farmers Nazism is spread abroad among the settlers. They are told that when Hitler comes there will be no more hard times. Communism also has a large share of the public ear, and Atheism finds many followers. Starved for good newspapers, magazines and books, and with few radios, is it any wonder that the settlers, in their extreme poverty and loneliness, fall an easy prey to the colorful literature and false doctrines of the avowed enemies of the Empire and of true religion?

Finishing their Van work in October, fourteen of these young women went to isolated mission stations where, owing to lack of money, there is no missionary. They live in one-room shacks and organize Sunday Schools, women's groups, help with the Red Cross, form boys' and girls' clubs, and serve the whole community. In some cases the worker is a nurse and acts both as doctor and nurse in areas which are fifty and sixty miles from a doctor or hospital.

These women are laying a spiritual foundation on which a new and better Empire will be built in the days to come. They face untold hardships and endless discomforts. The London Times recently printed this sentence: "It will be of little use to fight as we are fighting to-day for the preservation of Christian principles if Christianity itself is to have no future; or at immense cost to safeguard religion against attacks from without if we allow it to be starved by neglect from within."

Feeling that this work is the task of all right-minded Canadians to face, St. Andrew's Woman's Auxiliary extended the invitation to hear Miss Hasell to Grimsby Baptist, St. John's Presbyterian and Trinity United Churches, as well as St. Alban's, Beamsville, and St. John's Winona, all of which were well represented.

PLAN SECOND GRIMSBY BLOOD DONATION FOR FEBRUARY 16

Plans for the holding of another "Grimsby Day" at the Hamilton Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic are now being completed, and those hundred men of this district who went to Hamilton on the first occasion will soon be hearing from the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the arrangements.

William Hewson, chairman of the committee, announced last Tuesday that the date had been set for Monday, February 16, and that some men who found it impossible to attend the last time would be welcomed on this occasion. These men are asked to get in touch with any member of the committee at the earliest possible time. The committee, besides Mr. Hewson, consists of H. B. Matchett, Kenneth Baxter, Erwin Phelps and Robert Glendinning.

Those who made the journey last time need not worry about a "bottleneck" being formed again this time, according to Mr. Hewson. Three new tables have been added to the equipment in the Hamilton Academy of Medicine building opposite the Hamilton General Hospital, and Mr. Hewson expressed himself as confident that they are enough to handle all who wish to travel from Grimsby on that date.

Mr. Hewson also stated that the same system of automobiles and timing would be followed out, and that in the light of previous experience, little time should be lost by those volunteering for this service.

Game And Party Arena Events

Tomorrow evening the Peach Buds clash with Paris in a scheduled fixture of the O.H.A. "C" group. The game gets under way at 8:30 sharp.

Next Thursday the ladies of the White Elephant Shop are holding a skating party by which they hope to raise funds for the operation of their store on Main St. W. All skaters are asked to turn out and enjoy themselves and at the same time contribute to a good work.

Completion of the local Victory Loan committee is being rapidly brought to completion by Chairman James W. Baker. During the past week the following appointments were announced: second vice-chairman of the loan, A. R. Globe; secretary, E. J. Muir; card records, B. H. Scott; public relations committee, Robert Glendinning, chairman, E. Bruce Murdoch, Fred Case; captain of sales committee, Ralph Bosh.

Cecil Horton, representative of the Lincoln County Loan committee, has established his office at the town hall, and he may be reached by calling 16, by any who wish information on the loan.

Millyard's Drug Store has taken on a bright new appearance and has been enlarged considerably to accommodate the new dispensary which has been set up at the rear of the store. Petitions have been moved back several feet to make room for the gleaming white shelving and drawer space, without in any way reducing the store itself. Glass beakers and containers have been neatly arranged along the counter fronting the dispensary, and medicines have been easily accessible for the prompt and accurate preparation of prescriptions. In addition to Mr. Millyard, Mrs. E. Gordon, who is also a graduate druggist, is qualified to fulfill prescriptions.

According to C. H. Rushton, team manager, hospital authorities have advised that Malloy "would probably pull through" but would have to have his neck in a cast for at least two months.

Jack Vogt, riding in the same car, was injured in the O.H.A. Junior "C" game the team played at Simcoe. Vogt suffered a crushed bone in his chest while his team was tying the score 6 all. Lloyd Shepherd, another player, suffered a badly hurt right ankle.

E. Phelps Heads Grimsby Chamber Of Commerce

Succeeds R. C. Bourne In Chair As Bourne Assumes Secretaryship—H. V. Betzner Named Vice President — Committee Heads Are Named.

Erwin Phelps, vice-president of the Grimsby Chamber of Commerce last year, was named president of the organization for 1942 at a meeting of the directors held last Friday evening at the Hotel Grimsby. His place was taken by H. V. Betzner, who last year headed the merchants' committee.

Mr. Phelps succeeded Robert C. Bourne as president, and Mr. Bourne in turn assumed the duties of secretary of the Chamber in succession to Robert Glendinning. T. G. Gammage was re-appointed treasurer.

The following were appointed to head the various committees for the year: Industrial and civic, Hugh Campbell; cigarette, C. D. Miliward; lighting, D. C. Thomson; publicity, Kenneth C. Baxter; merchants, Wray Betts; membership, Russell Terry; entertainment, Harold B. Matchett. These chairmen have power to add to their committees.

A new departure in the Chamber of Commerce was the formation of an advisory committee to the board of directors. This committee is to consist of the past presidents. It was felt by the directors that past presidents who are not directors often have some experience which is most valuable to the men in office, and that their opinions should be obtained on various occasions.

A survey of opinion regarding the holding of big days and carnivals is to be made by the merchants' committee in an effort to ascertain just what the views of merchants are regarding these events when they are held on Saturdays. This matter has been referred to at various meetings of the Town Council.

It was also decided that, in an effort to stimulate interest in civic affairs, the directors would attend meetings of the Town Council in future, and be prepared to give any information should it be desired. While it was agreed that the directors should be represented, it was urged that as many members and citizens as possible should be present at the meetings.

Council Split On Appointment Of Hydro Lawyer

Decide Against Toronto Firm At Fifty Dollars In Favour Of Seymour — No Commission Election This Year.

Grimsby Town Council last week rejected a motion appointing the firm of McLaughlin, Johnston, Moorhead and Macauley to handle the legal work in connection with the purchase of the local hydro system at a fee of fifty dollars, and immediately passed another motion retaining Morton A. Seymour of St. Catharines at no specific fee. The second motion was vigorously opposed by those who supported the first motion.

The motion to appoint the Toronto firm, the voting was as follows: ayes—Councillors, Baker, Alton and Anderson; nays—Councillors Lewis, Bull, Bourne and Reeve Lothian. When the motion to retain Mr. Seymour was introduced, Councillor Alton pointed

David C. Thomson Convalescing At His Home Here

Mr. David C. Thomson, manager of the local Hydro office, who figured in a serious motor accident just before Christmas, and who has since been confined to the Hamilton General hospital, was able to be returned to his home on Friday of last week. Mr. Thomson who suffered severe chest injuries and fractured leg, and his wife, who also received a fractured ankle and deep abrasions, are both convalescing at their home now and are reported as showing favorable improvement. Other occupants of the unfortunate car who were injured are unable to be about again.

Maloy, 18 year old left-winger of the Grimsby Peach Bud hockey team, is a patient in Hamilton General hospital, where he is suffering from a broken neck.

Maloy was injured when the car in which he was returning from a hockey game at Simcoe overturned Monday night. X-rays taken at the hospital revealed that three bones were broken in Maloy's neck. The car, which was owned and driven by Watson McPherson, president of the Grimsby club, was almost completely demolished. According to Mr. McPherson the car struck an icy patch about five miles out of Simcoe and skidded into a ditch. Four other players in the car, Lloyd Berryman, Jack Vogt, Charles Robinson and J. Olmstead, as well as the driver, were all exceedingly fortunate in escaping injury, although all were badly shaken up.

The injured man was taken to a doctor by team members who were following in another car, although upon examination no injuries were believed to have been suffered. Maloy was returned to his home in Hamilton, a drive of 40 miles, where he took ill during the night. His family physician was summoned and immediately had the young man taken to a hospital. JURY FINDS DRIVER TO HAVE BEEN NEGLIGENT DRIVING CAR WHICH KILLED E. HAWORTH

St. Catharines Man Testifies That He Did Not See Victim Until Fifteen Feet From Him — Car Travelled Over Two Hundred Feet After Impact Last Christmas Day.

Inquest Held Yesterday

A coroner's jury, sitting under Dr. C. W. Elmore of Beamsville, found "evidence of neglect on the part of the driver" whose automobile hit Edward Haworth as he was walking along the Queen Elizabeth Way last Christmas day. The driver of the car was William Staples of St. Catharines.

The five-man jury headed by Fred Jewson, listened to three witnesses, none of whom actually saw the impact, and to Staples and his wife, E. H. Lancaster, K.C., of St. Catharines, represented the crown. Staples was unrepresented.

The first witness called was E. Bruce Murdoch, who identified three pictures which he had taken at the instigation of A. E. Reilly, the traffic officer who investigated the tragedy. The photos showed the death car and its relative position to the body. One close up of the car showed the right front fender, where apparently the vehicle had struck the deceased man.

Dr. J. H. MacMillan recalled having been called to the scene of the accident, and gave as his opinion that death had resulted from a fracture of the first and second cervical. Other injuries which had been sustained were described as fractured tibia and femur, as well as abrasions of the forehead and a lacerated right forefinger.

Constable Reilly declared that he came upon the accident during his regular patrol of the Queen Elizabeth Way within a few minutes after it had occurred.

"I found a man lying on the north shoulder of the west-bound traffic lane, and west of that I saw a car pulled up. I was told that the car had struck a man as he was walking along the highway. When I came to the remains, life was extinct. I then phoned for the coroner and a photographer," he stated.

"He seemed to come forward to my car," witness replied.

"Don't you think you should have seen him some distance back? At a speed of forty-five miles per hour, do you know what

MEETINGS PLANNED TO DISCUSS FARM LABOUR SITUATION HERE

Ottawa President Warns W.M.S. Re Sugar Purchase

Plans for the forthcoming season with special reference to the labour situation are to be discussed at a series of meetings to be held throughout the Niagara Peninsula under the direction of the Ontario Department of Labour. It was announced this week by E. S. Sampson, placement officer of the Farm Service Force of the Ontario Department of Labour.

Pointing out that the labour situation this year will be greater than in 1941, Mr. Sampson emphasized the necessity for as many growers attending the meeting in their district as possible.

Mr. Sampson stated that forms had been sent to all farmers who were interested in this scheme last year, and he has asked that these forms be returned as soon as possible. Those who were not affiliated with the Department of Labour for this plan last year are asked to attend, and a supply of the forms will be available at the meetings.

The meetings are to be held on the following dates in this district:

Grimsby, February 2nd, at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Hall; Winona, February 3, at 2 p.m. in Winona Hall; Beamsville, Feb. 4, at 3 p.m. in the Community Hall; Vineland, February 4, at 8 p.m. in Victoria Hall; Jordan, February 6, at 3 p.m. in the Woman's Institute Hall, Jordan Station; St. Catharines, Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. in B. Jesus Calls For Disciples

Luke 5:1-11.

Golden Text—Mark 1:17.

Come ye after me and I will make you to become fishers of men.

Approach To The Lesson

It is a great moment in one's life when he hears the call to a life of service, in devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ and for the blessing of a lost world. To respond to that call in loving obedience is to enter upon an altogether new and blessed experience. This is something more than conversion or even consecration.

The Heart of The Lesson

Whole time service for Christ should never be considered as a hardship, but rather as a glorious privilege. It is a great honor to be entrusted with the proclamation of the gospel, the good news of pardon and peace for all who will accept it.

A Lesson Outline

The Calling of the Four Disciples The first recognition of Jesus as Saviour (John 1:35-42). Peter and Andrew called (Matt. 4:18-20). (Mark 1:16-18). James and John called (Matt. 4:21-22). (Mark 1:18, 20).

Application

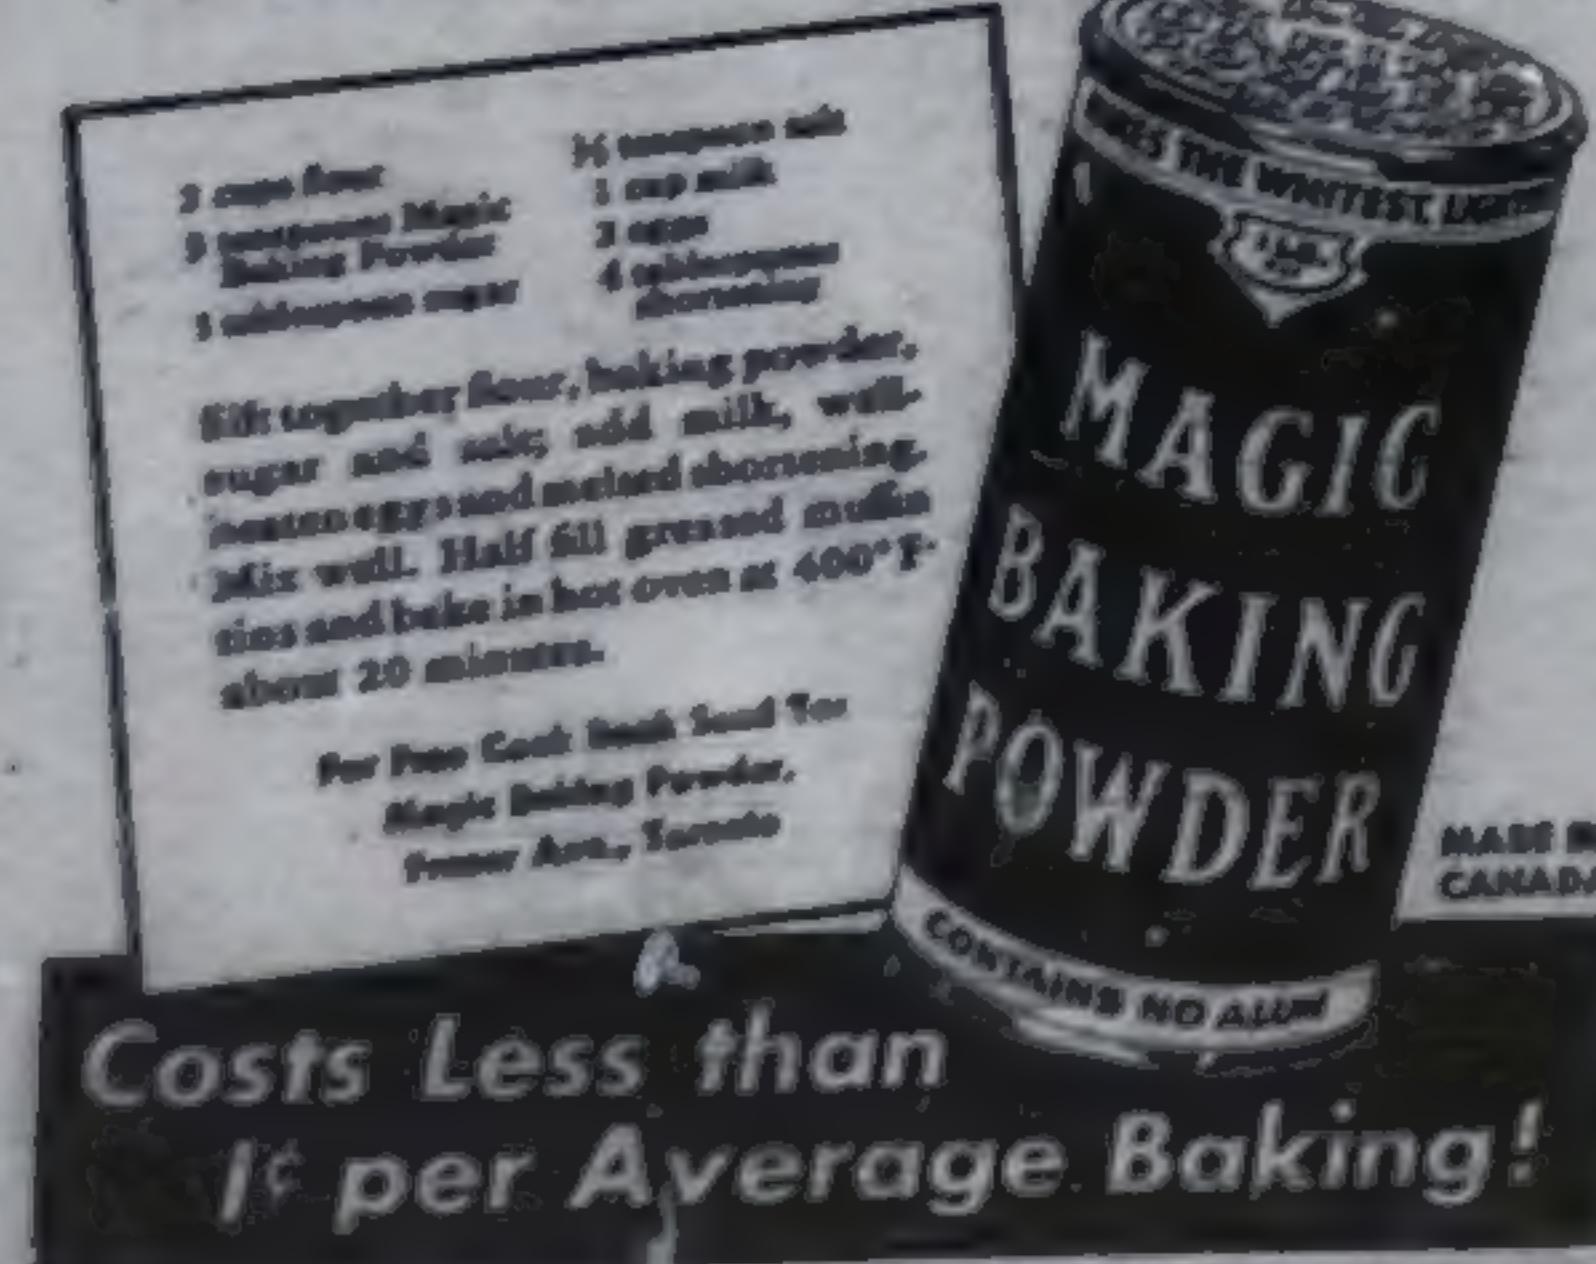

Had Peter refused to obey the command to let down the net, he would never have known the remarkable experience of that day. Let us learn from this to obey, unhesitatingly, the word of the Lord. "Trust and obey", for there's no other way to be happy in Jesus, but to trust and obey.

LAUGHTER

A laugh is just like sunshine, It freshens all the day. It tips the peaks of life with light And drives the clouds away. The soul grows glad that bears And feels it courage strong; A laugh is like sunshine For cheering folks along. A laugh is just like music, It lingers in the heart. And where its melody is heard The life of life depart. And happy thoughts come crowding, Its joyful notes to greet, A laugh is just like music For making living sweet.

BEGIN TO-DAY

Dream not too much of what you'll do tomorrow, How well you'll work perhaps another year; Tomorrow's chance you do not need to borrow— To-day is here. Boast not too much of mountains you will master, The while you linger in the vale below; To dream is well, but plodding brings us faster To where we go. Talk not too much about some new endeavor You mean to make a little later on. Who idles now will idle on forever Till life is gone. Swear not some day to break some habit's fetter, When this old year is dead and passed away; If you have need of giving wiser, better, Begin to-day!

Two plaster figurines, one amateur photo lamp in a handy cardboard reflector, a portrait attachment slipped over the lens, and the result—a table-top, a heretic. Note how the light was placed low and to the right so the shadows of the subjects would be cast on the background.

HAVE you ever tried table-top pictures? It's really a lot of fun and quite simple, too.

No, this type of picture taking doesn't require expensive equipment. The simplest camera will be adequate. Ordinary house lights can be used for illumination. If you give time exposures. Or, if you prefer to make snapshot exposures, you can use high speed film with a couple of amateur photo lamps for your light source.

Materials for table-top photography can be picked up around any home. At the start, it may be a good idea to peek into the nursery and select a few toys such as a teddy bear, dolls, lead soldiers, and the like. Try to pick out toys which can be adjusted to different positions, that is, those which have movable arms and legs—so you can create all sorts of picture situations. The technique for table-top is quite simple. Just arrange your lights exactly as you would for any other indoor picture. Whenever possible, use a small lens opening, for you'll get sharper pictures. For most pictures of this type the camera should be fairly close to the subject, and if yours doesn't focus for "close-ups," you will need a portrait attachment to slip on the lens. This inexpensive gadget enables you to place the camera within three and one-half feet of the table-top scene. The next time you get out your camera for some indoor pictures, try two or three table-tops for the fun of it. This evening is a good time, and I am sure that after you have made a few of these unusual pictures, you'll be busy thinking up ideas for more.

Protect Baby
From DraughtsAttractive
Meat Dishes

Babies are very liable to catch colds from other people, and this liability is increased if they are allowed to sit on draughty or cold floors in the winter time, once they have reached the creeping stage. Children like to sit up before they learn to walk, and many mothers put them on the floor because it is the one place from which they cannot fall. In the cold weather, however, it is better to place baby in a clothes basket with warm woolen blankets around it so he can play with his toys without fear of draughts or chills.

But at times, in spite of taking all precautions, very young children or his little hands are fast become unduly cold, give him a hot bath and put him in his cot at once. For a baby a teaspoonful of mustard added to the bathwater adds remarkably to the efficiency of the bath. The mustard should always be first mixed into a thin paste with a little cold or tepid water. This brings out the medicinal qualities of the mustard and allows it to do its work of inducing circulation and thereby offset the effects of the chill or cold.

Mustard baths, made stronger, are likewise a pleasant treatment for older children and adults who have contracted, or are threatened with colds and other winter ailments.

NECESSITY ONE REASON WHY NEW REGULATIONS WILL WORK DESPITE FIFTY FOR FAILURE

WAR ON THE HOME FRONT—

One ends a sojourn with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at Ottawa with a sense of having taken part in a great adventure; certainly with a sense of having watched an experiment on a stupendous scale, of having witnessed the breaking of virgin ground in an attempt to control a force—inflation—that has hitherto successfully defied the genius of every nation that has attempted to control it.

There is no illusion among those who are setting and administering the policy of the Board as to the nature of their undertaking. They know that inflation has developed in every country that ever fought a major war; they also know how ruinous its results have been and they have set their teeth and toil at their desks from early morning until late at night; determined and confident.

It is a quiet confidence, tinged with patience and good humour, and spiced by what the Chairman, Donald Gordon, calls "spontaneous ingenuity". It permeates the entire Birks Building in which the Board has its head offices and extends through the Administrators' offices and regional offices throughout Canada, for it is one of Donald Gordon's outstanding qualities that he can inspire others with his own feelings and aspirations and lead them along with him in whatever must be undertaken. No defeatism, no faltering of faith in the ultimate outcome is found. The faith is simple and inspiring. As Gordon himself has said: "I can give you 50 reasons why this policy will not work. But, outweighing all these, there is one imperative and compelling reason why it must and will be made to work. The reason is necessity—national necessity, urgent, dire, undeniable—for the survival of this country and your homes and your families."

"For he set them an example—that they should follow in HIS steps!" So Charles M. Sheldon prefaced his great best-seller, "In His Steps"! And radio's powerful dramatization of this telling story of human striving and success, carries the theme in each stirring episode. With Gale Gordon as Dr. Maxwell, and a strong supporting cast, "In His Steps" is heard Tuesdays at 8:00 p.m. D.B.T. on CKOC. Saluting each week some organization whose work is an example of those, who in these trying times, do follow in His Steps, the powerful personal theme of the novel is forcibly caught. It's a program with a challenge.

Representatives of Business And Industry

However in the application of the Board's policy it is representatives of business and industry who act; men who know the problems of the business or industry affected. For example, Hon. Gordon Taggart, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, heads up the foods division; E. G. Burton, a well-known retail executive, is Retail Administrator; a baker heads up the bakeries section of the food division; textile men apply the price ceiling to the textile industry; shoe men take care of boot and shoe problems, etc. Practically all these Administrators and Co-ordinators are serving voluntarily and thus business enforces the price ceiling upon itself. As Donald Gordon has said, it is a great undertaking in self regulation by business. In my opinion it is the greatest undertaking of this kind that has as yet been attempted.

Rely Upon Citizens' Loyalty

The Board's chief reliance for observation of the price ceiling law is not so much upon any "machinery" of enforcement but upon the human element; upon the loyalty of Canadian citizens who have always been ready to do their part in any undertaking that is necessary for a successful prosecution of the war effort. It was for this reason that the Board called upon the women of Canada who do 80% of all the consumer buying, to police themselves by keeping records of all the prices that they pay so that they will not pay more than the ceiling prices—the ceiling price is the highest price that a merchant charged during the basic period of September 15th to October 11th. Emphasis is laid on the fact that the buyer who knowingly breaks the law by paying more than the ceiling price is just as guilty as the seller who charges more than his ceiling price and is equally subject to fine and imprisonment in an established court. The other is suspension of the seller's licence—all business has been placed under a blanket licence by the Board and specific licensing will shortly be completed. Cancellation or suspension of a licence is a swift, effective weapon because without licence no one may carry on business. However Mr. McGregor does not contemplate much need for such drastic action. Rather he relies upon the loyalty of Canadians for compliance with the law.

A Bad Start For Hydro

THE appointment of Merton A. Seymour of St. Catharines to handle the legal work in connection with the purchase of the local hydro system is causing considerable discussion among the rate-payers of Grimsby. When, on a split vote, council decided to retain Mr. Seymour for this work, they did so after having rejected a motion to appoint the firm of McLaughlin, Johnston, Moorhead and Macauley of Toronto, at a flat fee of fifty dollars. Mr. Seymour has made it clear that his fee would amount to two hundred and fifty dollars at least, with any incidental which might accrue on the way. There is little reason to believe that his fee will be less than three hundred dollars, and no surprise should be forthcoming if it nears the four hundred dollar mark.

The reasons for the appointment of Mr. Seymour are hard to find or justify. It has been said that he advises the local police department, and that this advice is given without charge. This fact is no reason for giving Mr. Seymour carte blanche in the matter. The council by its action last week well demonstrated the town's ability to pay for any legal assistance which might be necessary. Then, too, there is a crown attorney stationed at St. Catharines whose duty it is to advise the police department in the proper discharge of its duties.

The suggestion was also made that Mr. Seymour, having been asked to attend a meeting of the council and discuss various aspects of the hydro deal, should be retained to complete the transaction. When Mr. Seymour appeared before the council, he was asked what his fee would be for that meeting, and also asked if there was any obligation on the part of the council with regard to retaining him to complete the hydro purchase. Mr. Seymour's answer on that point was clear. When his work for that evening had been completed, there was no further obligation on the part of the town to retain him.

As between the two choices which were discussed at the last council meeting, there is little to say. Mr. Seymour is an able solicitor who has become well known throughout this district over a period of years. The Toronto firm, McLaughlin, Johnston, Moorhead and Macauley contains some of the best municipal legal experts in the Dominion of Canada. They have been called in by the provincial government on numerous occasions, and are thoroughly conversant with all aspects of the municipal picture. Their word that they would undertake the work for fifty dollars would, of course, be as good as a bond. Having completed several hydro transactions in the past, they are conversant with the type of work entailed by Grimsby's venture into municipal ownership of hydro.

It may be that there was good reason for the retention of Mr. Seymour, but if that were the case, surely the people who in the end are to pay for the work entailed should be told of that reason. Governments of all kinds are too prone to expect citizens to take things for granted, and the council last week certainly gave an example of this error. Any government needs the goodwill and support of the people for whom it acts, but it cannot expect that support to be forthcoming with unexplained actions of this sort.

In the face of these facts, and especially at a time when economy in all things is the watchword of every individual and public body, the action taken by council last week is indefensible. By this action a minimum of two hundred dollars has been tossed away. Hydro has stepped off on the wrong foot, and in view of these facts, citizens might well question the wisdom of turning over the management of hydro to the council until such time as a commission is elected. The action of the council cannot, at the present time, be regarded as anything but a whim, and whims are not the yardsticks by which policies are determined. It would be best, judging from this performance, to have the affairs of the new venture into which Grimsby is stepping administered by the Water Commission until a Public Utilities Commission is set up.

Lack of Patriotism

LAST Monday was the first day of sugar rationing under the plan which was announced last Sunday by Donald Gordon, chairman of the War-time Prices and Trade Board. In his announcement, Mr. Gordon put the onus for reducing the consumption of sugar by one third in the Dominion on the shoulders of the housewives. It was a reasoned appeal to the patriotism and good citizenship of all, but it failed.

All last Monday, and on through the week, housewives created a "run" on sugar for which there was no excuse. Grimsby was not the only community which was guilty of this activity, for reports show that similar runs were experienced elsewhere. Conspicuous among those who helped create the "run" locally were shoppers who have been most vehement about Canada's war program. By their act, they surely forfeit all right to be critical of the Government. The voluntary principle is still the best, and it would be safe to conjecture that these few unpatriotic persons would be among the loudest in their condemnation of restrictions should they lose their privilege of co-operating voluntarily.

Storm Over Whitehall

PRIME Minister Winston Churchill returned to London to face one of the greatest tests of his career. During his absence in Washington and Ottawa criticism had arisen on many counts, and every newspaper, from the London Times down, found much with which to feed the mounting wave of individual denunciation which had been growing.

Most serious charges were to the effect that there was "bungling" in both the Army and Navy. The most recent example of this was the trip which Mr. Churchill took to this continent. It appears that the new battleship, the Duke of York, was to have been met by an escort of destroyers off the Azores, and that these destroyers did not turn up. Rather than wait and enable enemy agents to sight the ship, or radio and run the risk of attracting attention, the huge ship made the perilous journey alone, and it was not until her arrival on this side that the British Admiralty was made aware of the unkept rendezvous.

Criticism was also rampant concerning the spectacular successes of the Japanese in the Far East. The Government's entire conception of the difficulties which confront the Allies at this juncture was challenged, while countless letters to the papers and special articles reflect the British view of Anthony Eden's recent discussion of his visit to Russia as "stupid", "shortsighted", "without any understanding".

This great barrage of criticism also included charges of industrial malpractice and incompetence. The London Times claimed an increase of forty per cent. as possible for British war industries, and this figure, while it might have been somewhat exaggerated had it come from some other source, was confirmed in the report of the Select Committee on National Expenditure, which claimed production to be but seventy-five per cent. of what it should be. That there were grounds for these statements was also to be found in the appeal for a thirty to forty per cent. increase suggested by none other than Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labour, and Mr. Churchill himself.

Many other points were covered in the criticism which the Prime Minister had to face when he rose to address the House this week. The whole world waited for his reply, and the reply was one of the most astounding which has been heard from the lips of a Prime Minister in all the long history of Whitehall. Mr. Churchill, who is an astute politician if nothing, caught his critics off guard by the simple expedient of pleading guilty and figuratively asking what they were going to do about it. He admitted bungling, pointed to serious losses which had been sustained, and instead of explaining them declared that more losses were in store before parity with the Axis nations was achieved. He said flatly that no scapegoat would be searched out and used, his friends and colleagues would not be dismissed, and that if Parliament or the nation felt that there was any blame to be attached it should be attached to him. He then called for a vote of confidence.

This bland brush-off did not, however, finish the matter. Indications are that while Churchill was smirking under the criticism, and was anxious to close it, he was not deaf to it. Formation of an Imperial War Council was announced, and even greater changes, which might include replacements in his cabinet, may be forthcoming. It is also thought that he might form a war cabinet the members of which will be free from departmental responsibilities. Whatever the outcome, the assurance that Churchill himself will take the responsibility for any shortcomings of his colleagues ensures that he will continue to lead Great Britain. His own enormous prestige cannot be lightly dropped from the picture of Britain in wartime.

WORD 'BLOCKADE' GIVES WAY TO 'ECONOMIC WARFARE' WHEN WAR'S RAMIFICATIONS SPREAD

By NOEL BARBER

(This interview was written by Mr. Barber, a well known London journalist, just prior to the United States entering the conflict).

HOW, after more than two years of war, after changed conditions and fluctuating boundaries, is Britain waging her share of economic warfare? What are the results—and how does she wage this warfare?

I have spent an afternoon with Dr. Hugh Dalton, Britain's Minister of Economic Warfare, finding out. For Dr. Dalton—tall, with a high, domed forehead and a genial manner—knows all the answers, knows everything there is to know about the magic word Blockade.

Though he won't use the word blockade now. Not alone, anyway.

"This is economic war—in the full sense of the word," he told me. "It is not blockade. And it hasn't been since June, 1940, when the Germans took control of Western Europe. Until then, of course, naval patrols had been able to keep watch, and bring ships still trading with neutral European countries into control bases for examination, so that we could seize cargoes which would have found their way to Germany.

"But in June, 1940, we had to find a new technique to meet the new situation. We couldn't possibly maintain patrols to watch the enemy's great coastline—quite apart from the fact that our ships were needed for other jobs."

New Navviers Began

So Britain started the system of compulsory navviers and ship warrants. All ships selling to Europe had to have every item of cargo covered by navviers—a sort of commercial passport for the cargoes. In other words, the cargo had to be approved before it was loaded.

"In fact," says Dr. Dalton, "the blockade was moved one stage further back." It became a blockade on the quays instead of on the sea.

To shipowners who gave satisfactory undertakings, Britain issued ship warrants. She trusts those men, and the warrants give their ships access to all facilities, such as bunkers, repairs and so on, under British control.

"Of course you mustn't forget," said Dr. Dalton, "that navviers are only one arm of economic warfare. We've got other weapons as well, such as export licensing, immobilization of enemy funds abroad, black-listing and that valuable weapon, pre-emption—which means buying goods which otherwise would have been available to the enemy. And in all this, we have the powerful lever of the United States.

The United States licensing List, which at this moment covers all important economic war materials except cotton, not only conserves supplies for the defense of fort of the United States, but denies them to agents who might have passed them on to the enemy.

"And then, the huge United States purchasing program in Latin America has covered much of the output of many valuable metals, such as tin and copper. Do you know—in six months, the United States has bought more goods by value from Latin America than were normally sold in a year to all countries in Europe. We are also undertaking a similar pre-emptive program."

Frozen Assets

Then there is the freezing of assets. As the Minister pointed out, the United States last summer from German and Italian funds, and subsequently Japanese assets, wherever they were under her control. This means that Axis funds are not directly available any longer to finance propaganda and subversive interests within the borders of the United States.

"Our own Black List has been functioning for some time," added Dr. Dalton, "barring enemy-controlled firms so far as British trade is concerned. And this has been strengthened by the United States Proclaimed List, which gives the names of Latin-American firms who will be treated as Axis nations and boycotted by Americans. So you see, we use a great variety of weapons and cover a great deal of ground. And behind it, of course, is the Navy—the threat which can be used if an odd ship or two attempts to run the blockade."

The Ministry itself—the central organization—controls all the issues of navviers, the general policy and so on, but there is another side on which much of the other activity depends. That is the work of the Intelligence branch.

Secret Watch On Germany

"In this," said Dr. Dalton, "we coordinate commercial information received from all over the world. We have a separate section dealing with neutral firms in which we're interested, while another records statistics of the trade of neutral countries adjacent to the enemy."

"We also have a large department watching—through secret sources, as well as the German News, TV and radio—economic conditions in Germany and the occupied countries, so that we can check the effects of the blockade and advise the chiefs of staff on the economic implications of any strategic plan. Particularly, we have regular discussions with the Air Ministry about industrial bombing targets in Germany."

So you see, there is a great deal of machinery behind the stopping of an enemy ship in mid-Atlantic. But does it help? And his Hitler's march into Russia broken the blockade?

Dr. Dalton smiled. "Well," he said, "if you're expecting a sensational economic breakdown inside Germany, then of course you'll be disappointed. We know what we're up against, and we aren't disappointed. As for Hitler's Russian enterprise—that has actually helped us."

"Germany is now boasting that with her conquests in Russia the blockade is broken, but that is completely untrue. Oil, rubber, textiles, leather, steel-hardening metals, copper and vegetable oils are not only German but European deficiencies. The Russian campaign has closed Germany's lifeline to the Far East—the Trans-Siberian railway—by which she got vegetable oils, rubber and silk. The Germans can't get any more wool and cotton from Russia or Iran."

"Of course, the Russians have had grave industrial losses, but the German gains are not commensurate, because they don't make up for the real German and European deficiencies. Now, only the Marmilles leak is still open, and there the Germans are trying to exploit it to get, among other things, vegetable oils and phosphates. But even so, the blockade is tighter than ever before."

"As for the immediate effects, you must look for them behind the German front lines. Civilians in occupied countries—and that includes Germany's partner, Italy—and in Germany itself feel the pinch first. Then industries in German Europe feel it. And lastly, the army. We haven't forgotten that the blockade, admittedly very effective in the last war, didn't stop the great German offensive of 1918."

"Italy is the most recent sufferer from blockade. Bread, potatoes and clothes have suddenly been rationed, but German civilians are also feeling the pinch. The German clothes ration has been reduced by at least twenty-five per cent. The German meat ration was cut last summer by twenty per cent. and potatoes, one of their staple foods, have now been rationed locally."

"German industry is bound to suffer too. The Russian campaign (whether the Nazis are advancing or retreating) is reducing German stocks of raw materials. It emphasizes the difficulties of transport—one of Germany's most serious problems—and is draining German man-power which is needed, not only for armies of occupation, but to grow food which Europe cannot import, and mine coal to make synthetic oil and rubber."

Then the Minister summed it all up in these few words—which are at once an answer to the critic and a deterrent to the over-optimist. He said:

"The blockade is only one of the weapons we employ. By itself it cannot force a decision. However, used with our other arms, it may well help to tip the scale. It is a long-term weapon which cannot achieve spectacular results in a short time. But its effects are cumulative—as the enemy is not finding to his cost."

Drop Decision After Holding
Visitors To No Score Till
End of Second Period—
Goalenders Outstanding.

Those who failed to attend the Junior "C" O.H.A. game at the Arena here last Friday between the Peach Buds and the league leading Caledonia team missed one of the best games of the season, when the locals extended the visitors to the limit. Although Caledonia deserved the win, the locals should have been on the score sheet. Time after time the Buds missed the open net or were outguessed by Amilinger in the visitors' net. On the other hand, Olmstead played outstanding hockey in the nets for Grimsby.

In the first period, which was wide open hockey, both teams missed scoring opportunities but owing to the sparkling work of both goal tenders the period ended in a dead-lock.

At the three-quarter mark of the second period Mehlenbacher scored for the visitors on an assist by Sabo and Brown. The period ended without any further scoring.

The third stanza had just got under way when Jamieson, assisted by Sabo and Brown made the count 2 to 0. Caledonia again bulged the twins at the fifteen minute mark. The locals missed several chances to score in this period but over eagerness caused them to over-skate the puck and shoot wild.

Caledonia—Goal, Amilinger; defense, Jamieson and Lintick; centre, Spital; wings, Neilson and Mehlenbacher. Alternates—Sabo, Brown, Yacobino.

Grimsby—Goal, Olmstead; defense, Ferris and Shepherd; centre, Hann; wings, Berryman and J. Blanchard. Alternates—Miller, Milligan, Williams, Smith, Molay, Vogt, A. Blanchard (sub-goal).

The success of their undertaking is reported by W. W. Not only have the workers purchased certificates, and continue to do so, but managers of the dining, cafe and pub cars are discreetly invited to contribute some of the change for a start. How Rent Control Affects You — as a landlord

As a part of the general plan to hold further increases in the Cost of Living, the Government on December 1, 1941, extended the policy of the Price Ceiling to rentals for all commercial and housing accommodation in Canada. Generally speaking the new rental laws provide that:

(1) No oral or written lease for any commercial or housing accommodation (furnished or unfurnished) may legally be made after October 11, 1941, at a rental higher than the maximum lawfully payable under the laws in effect on that date unless an application for increased rental has been made to and approved by a local Rental Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Such an application must be based on specified circumstances arising since October 11, 1941.

NOTE: Land and premises used for farm purposes are not subject to rent control.

(2) A tenant is entitled to a removal of his lease unless the landlord requires the premises for certain reasons named in the Board's Rental Orders and has given the tenant a written notice to vacate within the time and in the manner prescribed therein. If this notice to vacate is contested by the

SOLDIERS LOVE DOGS

Canine Mascots

By PHILOKUON

Most soldiers have a tender spot in their hearts for dogs, and so have their companions in arms, the sailors and airmen. In days of peace a number of regiments had their canine mascots. All Londoners were familiar with the sight of a majestic Irish wolfhound walking proudly at the head of the Irish Guards. It seemed right that the descendants of dogs owned by Irish kings should be the mascot of such a fine regiment. "Gentle when stroked, fierce when provoked," were the words of the motto attached to an Irish wolfhound on the arms of one of these old monarchs.

The doggy mascots of the present time have less ceremonial duties to perform, being more or less the playthings of the men when off duty. I have been looking at the photograph of a noble St. Bernard, surrounded by a half a score of the Canadian battalion of which he is the mascot. I have seen another of the crew of a bomber that had just returned from a visit to Berlin. They were being greeted by the dog belonging to their squadron. As far as one could tell from the picture, the animal did not belong to any particular breed, but the gallant men were evidently delighted to have his welcome.

Any living thing seems to please the hearts of stern men whose lives are not worth a week's purchase. The crew of a minesweeper adopted a ban of all things, and named her Clara. All the other men in the fleet took an interest in the hen-and-chick welfare. One day the message was flashed round: "Clara's laid an egg." When we come to ships it often happens that authority has to keep a blind eye when an unauthorized addition to the strength goes aboard. An American soldier in the last war picked up a dog in France that became much attached to him. On returning he got him on to the transport ship all right, but the trouble was to evade the laws about dogs landing without the necessary formalities being observed. The difficulty was overcome by smuggling the little chap on shore in the case of the hand's big drum.

I understand that on the retreat to Dunkirk of the B.E.F. all sorts of French and Belgian dogs attached themselves to soldiers, who shared their scanty rations with them. Goodness knows how they managed to get on to the crowded transports, yet many of them did, to land in Dover and other ports. Whether they were able or not to escape the quarantine regulations I am unable to say. A number, at any rate, were, I believe, given homes in approved kennels for the statutory six months. People living in the neighbourhood of camps are often horrified at the proportions assumed by their dogs, the explanation being that the sturdy cadgers get filled to repletion by the soldiers. Some approve the hospitality so much that they transfer their affections from their lawful owners and annex new masters.

NOTE.—This chat is issued by The Tail-Wagger's Club, Willing House, 356-360 Grays Inn Road, London, W.C.1. The Club will be pleased to answer any enquiries submitted by Tail-Wagger owners in connection with canine hygiene and welfare.

Advises Farmers To Repairs Bags

John D. MacLeod Says Every Care Should Be Taken Of Present Supply.

Farmers and others handling produce contained in jute and cotton bags would be well advised to carefully collect, clean and mend every available bag, says John D. MacLeod, Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto. The supply is limited and every care should be taken of those on hand, he states.

To avoid damage by rats and mice to bags in storage, it is suggested they be hung over wires in a dry location a considerable distance from walls and floors.

Used bags may harbour and spread various plant diseases, so disinfection is recommended, if one is doubtful regarding the cleanliness of bags to be used. They may be dipped in a solution of formalin, one pint to 30 gallons of water for a period of three to five minutes.

Feeding Work Horses When Idle

(Experimental Farms News)

There is a vast difference between feeding work horses when idle and feeding idle work horses. The latter require a maintenance ration to keep them in good condition while the former require careful watching by the teamster or stable-man as the case may be, when work horses come off hard work and heavy feed to complete idleness as so many do. This is when trouble occurs such as lymphatitis and anoturia. The former causes "big leg" in valuable work horses which is an unsightly eye sore and usually shortens the life of the work horse while the latter usually causes death, says J. P. S. Ballantyne, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental station, Kapuskasing, Ontario.

When work horses come off hard work and heavy feed, the amount of grain feed should be reduced by half, at the same time adding more bran to the oats fed. If the rest period is long as it usually is in some districts, horses should be given soft feed such as a bran mash at least once a week, preferably on Saturday night with a teaspoonful of saltpeter in the mash. In addition to this, a handful of grain bran splits once a week helps to keep horses right and you will not have the trouble with work that is common when complete idleness takes place after hard work and heavy feed.

There are more good horses ruined from over-feeding than under-feeding, as a good horse man can always flesh a horse but cannot take those unsightly blemishes away that so often result from over-feeding.

Fall, A Leading Cause Of Death And Injury

The last report of the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario shows that the Board paid out money for 7,780 cases of falls, including 51 fatalities. In an effort to combat the needless risk that is taken by some industrial workers, the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations have, today, issued a bulletin to be posted in a prominent position on plant walls. The large colored poster depicts a worker standing on a makeshift support while adjusting a light fixture on the ceiling. A man stands below grasping the worker by the overalls and reprimanding him by pointing out the hazard of such an action. Beneath the picture is printed: "Thousands are hurt, each year, in industry in Canada, through falls. It is not always that pride goeth before a fall" for, sometimes a silly action goes before the fall."

FREIGHT TRAFFIC INCREASE IN THE MARITIMES

W. U. Appleton, vice-president and general manager, Atlantic Region, Canadian National Railways, states that freight traffic throughout the Maritimes increased by approximately 40 per cent during 1941 in comparison with the volume handled in 1939, the year war was declared. The increase represents millions of tons of war supplies and munitions. To cope with the growing traffic railway yards have been increased and other facilities added, including a locomotive erecting shop at Moncton, said to be one of the finest on the continent.

WORK OF FORWARDING GIFTS TO PRISONERS OF WAR TASKS RESOURCES OF THE RED CROSS

By GARRY ALLIGHAN

London—Every day a stream of comforts goes to prisoners of war who are in enemy hands with Canada's contribution helping to swell the flood. Thousands of articles are provided by Canadian Red Cross for men from the Dominion who are condemned by misfortune of war to the inactivity of captivity. The majority of Canadian prisoners are airmen who have crashed in enemy or enemy-occupied territory while engaged in bombing raids which help swing the pendulum of war in Europe in Allied favor.

Every week the Canadian Red Cross sends more than 30,000 parcels containing food supplied by Canadian firms at manufacturers' cost with no additions for overhead or administrative expenses. During the year just ended, $1,000,000 have been expended by the Canadian Red Cross in this manner. Foods, clothing, cigarettes and books are sent as well as harmonicas and other musical instruments which help pass long evening hours.

Arrangements for assisting Canadians and other Allied servicemen in enemy prison camps are delicate. Communication between Allied and Axis nations regarding prisoners would be impossible unless some organization, which all belligerents recognize as neutral, could act as intermediary between the nations. That is the function of the Red Cross of each country operating through the International Red Cross at Geneva, which is the main line junction between the kindness of Canadians and the needs of the war prisoners.

Gains New Citizenship

When a man is taken prisoner, he immediately becomes the cause of activity for 400 persons in the Geneva building. He ceases to be a soldier, sailor or airman, and does not become a civilian. He can neither fight nor be fought. He is a person apart, a member of a distinctive race. As a prisoner of war he becomes a citizen of a society whose flag bears the sign of the Red Cross.

Canada's gifts to her sons in captivity go through the central Red Cross agency for prisoners of war, which day and night is providing an essential link between prisoners and relatives at home. It is located in the big general council building in Geneva which has been placed at the disposal of the International Red Cross by state council of Switzerland.

Each prisoner's card is catalogued according to subsequent action to be taken. The most modern methods are used—photographic equipment replaces typewritten photostatic descriptions of prisoners are interchanged links in a chain between them and their loved ones at home.

This centre is connected directly with another in London—St. James Place headquarters of the Red Cross prisoners-of-war activities, with which the Canadian Red Cross co-operates. In the room where the Lord Chamberlain decided fine points of ceremonial procedure, scores of workers now are parcelling food and comforts from Canada and elsewhere for men in German prison camps.

Parcels Are Generous

Parcels of 2000 from Canada weigh 11 pounds each. Each article is carefully chosen by Canadian dietetic experts to ensure maximum vitamin value. The parcels contain a pound of powdered whole milk which produces 18 ounces of fluid milk per day for a week and is rich in minerals, proteins and fats. Into each weekly parcel goes a pound of butter, providing 1,500 international units of vitamin "A". Without butter Canadian prisoners in Germany, where acute shortage of fats prevails, would suffer. Canadian cheese specially processed to keep from going mouldy or deteriorating in transit, is sent. Coined beef, pork luncheon meat and canned herring are also included in the parcel, as well as dried fruits, jam and eating chocolate. These foods are not standard because parcels are altered from time to time to prevent monotony.

This is only part of the non-stop work for prisoners of war which is going on in Canada's name. That it is greatly appreciated is attested by the hundreds of letters reaching Canadian Red Cross headquarters in London from these men.

Please send your donations to the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund, either through your local society or direct to the Canadian Red Cross Society, 95 Wellesley St., Toronto.

STYLISH HOLIDAY CRAFT IN BATTLE DRESS

When Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of Naval Services, recently stated that the Canadian auxiliary cruiser Prince Robert has sailed across the Pacific Canadian troops sent to Hong Kong, his announcement gave a thrill to men of the Canadian National Railways coastal services. Previously the SS. Prince Robert was flagship of the Canadian National fleet in the British Columbia-Alaska run, a stylish, well-landed and popular ship. On the occasion of the return from Victoria to Vancouver in May, 1939, of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, the ship, under command of Captain H. E. Norden, became temporarily "The Royal Yacht Prince Robert."

The Prince Robert has been in war service since shortly after the outbreak of hostilities and in battle dress retains her smart appearance and fast speed.

out that there was no mention of the fee to be paid, and reminded the council that at the meeting which Mr. Seymour had attended, he had specifically mentioned the fact that his fee would be in the neighbourhood of two hundred and fifty to three hundred dollars.

Reeve William Lothian mentioned the fact that Mr. Seymour had already done some work on the hydro matter, and that it would be proper to retain him to finish the work. To this Councillor Anderson mentioned that the solicitor, when he attended the special meeting, had been clear on the point that no further obligation rested with the board to retain him to complete the work. He had been specifically asked if there was any reason why another solicitor could not receive the appointment, and had replied in the negative.

Another member of the council pointed out that the Chief of Police had often received advice for which there was no charge, to which Councillor Aitton replied that it was not the town's fault. Mr. Aitton held that if there was advice given which should have been paid for, then it was Mr. Seymour's fault that it was given gratis.

"It's simply throwing away the taxpayers' money without any reason," suggested Councillor Aitton. "I don't like it, and I know the citizens won't like it. There's no excuse, no justification for it."

Operation of the hydro for the first year, or that part of 1942 which will remain after the deal has been consummated, could be vested in either the Town Council or the Water Commission, Mr. Johnson announced. This form of management would prevail until the election of a suitable commission to handle the hydro affairs. In the meantime, operation of the hydro system was to remain vested in the commission.

The verdict of the jury, after it retired to consider it, was: That Edward Howarth met his death about 2 p.m. daylight saving time on December 26 on the Queen Elizabeth Way in North Grimsby Township as a result of injuries received when struck by a motor car operated by William Staples of St. Catharines, and we find evidence of neglect on the part of the driver."

distance it requires to stop a car? You stopped at two hundred and eight feet," said Mr. Lancaster.

As witness started to again tell how the figure suddenly appeared in front of him, the crown cut in:

"I am not satisfied, and I am sure the jury will not be satisfied with the general statements. A man has been killed. I have tried to give you all the opportunity I can for you to tell how, travelling at forty-five miles per hour, you suddenly saw this man just fifteen feet in front of you."

"That's all there is to it."

"Then," said Mr. Lancaster, "I suggest to you that you had gone about 45 feet before you started to blow your horn. Do you say you were that far (indicating distance between witness and a window) before you saw him and blew your horn?"

"Well," witness went on, "I can't say. I cannot judge distances. I haven't had any learning, and I can't read or write."

"I'm afraid that it isn't any excuse to kill people on the highway because you haven't any learning," replied the crown. "Why did you not stop before you had travelled nearly two hundred and ten feet?"

There were cars coming behind me and I had to pull out away from them," was the answer.

The verdict of the jury, after it retired to consider it, was: That Edward Howarth met his death about 2 p.m. daylight saving time on December 26 on the Queen Elizabeth Way in North Grimsby Township as a result of injuries received when struck by a motor car operated by William Staples of St. Catharines, and we find evidence of neglect on the part of the driver."
